T., Harringay (3,813).--It is difficult to judge accurately without seeing the piece, but after a careful examination of the photograph sent and comparison with specimens in the British Museum, we are of opinion that your dish is of modern Indian manufacture. The subjects appear to be the Avatas of Vishnu. We are unable to ascertain the meaning of the inscription on the back, which is modern Nagari in Sanskrit characters. The value of the dish will not be great, there being few collectors of these things. J. O K., Ballymoney (4,101).--Judging from sketch and particulars sent, your cup and saucer in black ware are productions of the Wedgwood factory. The three letters, F.G.W., however, suggest a late period of manufacture, probably since 1851, and the value will therefore be quite nominal, from 10s. to 15s., according to finish. Prints.--G. C., Dorset Square (4,032).--The prints mentioned in your letter have very little value. E. D. B., South Croydon (3,741)---Judging from particulars given your print after William Hogarth s March of the Guards toward Scotland, 1745, is probably only a copy of Luke Sullivan s engraving, as in the original plate the word Prussia is spelt with one s, and the date December 30th. Genuine impressions fetch from 30s. to 2 apiece. E. M. S., Blackheath (3,931).--Your proof prints of George IV. and W. Pitt should realise about 2 lds. and 15s. respectively. We cannot give any reliable information regarding...
