But, unless and until one moves, leaving behind every materialistic and spiritual attachment forever known is not an easy task. Only one who has moved to unknown destinations while never knowing as to what is going to happen needs courage beyond doubt and a clear vision to see the unforeseen. This book underlies the hard truth relating to circumstances under which the whole life, culture, religion and graves of loved ones have been put away as if it never existed. The journey never ends, after looking for a safe haven and being accepted in a new culture and society. Therefore, every effort, great and small has to be taken to get yourself recognized once again but this time the struggle never goes in vain and the results are to be achieved not instantly but with the passage of time without any regret. This makes the world a safe place not only for you, but for the generations to come. This book envisages the happenings in the corrupt society of Pakistan and crumbling institutions in all walks of life which leads people to look the peace heavens, to migrate to different parts of the world. The ray of hope at the end of the tunnel keeps them overcoming the obstacles put by the usurpers and by those who think they have captured the minds and bodies of all these people.
